The Toogood building was purchased by The Emily Program in 2010, with plans to convert the building into a space that provides residential and outpatient treatment for teens with eating disorders and their families.

The Saint Anthony Park neighborhood offered a safe and convenient location where clients and staff can be part of a strong community. The renovated design included fashionable yet soothing contemporary finishes, historic exposed brick elements and a new entry vestibule. With patients in need, the project schedule was the greatest project challenge.
